

Biography

Nassiri is an international songwriter, recording artist, philanthropist and peace activist who is dedicated to spreading a message of peace, love and healing through music. His songs are an eclectic mix of melodies, which transcend all ages, genders and religions to bring love, peace, hope and unity to the world.

His latest album, "Now's the Time," is a compilation of 17 brand new songs that touch the heart of many of today's sensitive issues. From the title track, Now's the Time, an anthem for people of the world to come together in peace, love and harmony, to "Mother Nature," a beautiful song that addresses the importance of taking care of our planet, to "We Are Brothers," an anthem for peace in the Middle East, to "Yes We Can," a tribute to the political activists and spiritual leaders of the past and present who all at one time or another said, "Yes We Can!" Including President Obama, Nelson Mandela, John Lennon, Gandhi, Mother Theresa, Oprah Winfrey, and Martin Luther King to name a few.

Nassiri's previous album, "Love Sees No Color," was an original compilation that speaks musically, lyrically and spiritually to the common bonds of the races of the earth. Love, hope and unity are the recurring themes of the songs that resonate with the instruments and rhythms of countless cultures and musical genres. Nassiri spent several years and millions of dollars in creating the most elaborate peace film ever made...his "Love Sees No Color" World Peace video. The music video and documentary were filmed in High Definition in 18 different countries around the world; it utilized 21 of the world's best directors, and features 15 different languages with a cast of thousands. It also features children from around the world in their culture's original and historical costumes. The film includes amazing and spectacular scenes shot by the Eiffel Tower in Paris, the Taj Mahal in India, the Brandenburg Gate in Berlin, the Vatican in Rome, the famous Persepolis monument in Iran, the Statue of Liberty in New York City, and the great Pyramids in Egypt to name a few.

Nassiri's peace efforts have been the catalyst to meet with leaders of the world including Nobel Prize winner Nelson Mandela, Pope Benedict XVI, President Obama, Vice-President Joe Biden, Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid, former President Bill Clinton, Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, Israeli Premier Shimon Peres, and former South Korean President Kim Dae-Jung. While on his world tour, Nassiri extended the invitation to meet with Kim Jung IL so that the world could see North Korea's people and its culture. He also sent a message from the DMZ border to open the bridge so that the people of North and South Korea can move freely. Nassiri recently met with President Obama to offer his assistance in peace negotiations with Iran. Also, in the past, along with Shimon Peres, he was instrumental in the negotiations between Israel and Palestine for the release of hostages. He recently co-hosted with Academy Award winner Jamie Foxx at a special event in Los Angeles to launch his "I WANT PEACE" campaign.

Peace Activist Nassiri met with President Obama recently while the President was in Las Vegas to discuss possible solutions to help relations between the US and Iran. Nassiri has been an active mediator between Israel and Palestine for years. He has held private meetings with Vice-Premier Shimon Peres, the Israeli Parliament and Palestinian authorities and was instrumental in assisting with the negotiations for the release of 3 hostages held during the 34-day war and the continued conflict between Israel and Palestine. It's because of this relationship with various factions of the Middle East that Nassiri was able to get the meeting with President Obama.

Fred Nassiri, philanthropist, peace activist and musician, along with Jamie Foxx and other celebrities took a break from gift suites and parties to support the long awaited release of Love Sees No Color and the launch of the www.iwantpeace.com. Penny Marshall, Vanessa Williams, Sofia Milos, Maurice Greene, Cheryl Burke, and many others came out to support the cause and were treated to a lavishly appointed cocktail party with a mission. Half way through the night the 400 plus guests were directed into the Paramount Theater where they were moved by both Nassiri's and Foxx's passionate speeches about world peace before they watched excerpts from Love Sees No Color, a documentary shot in 18 different countries to promote peace throughout the world.

Nassiri met recently with Senator Harry Reid at the Boys and Girls Club in Henderson, Nevada where he played one of his newest songs, "Yes We Can" for the Senate Majority Leader. It is a song that Nassiri wrote to honor our nation's new president and the positive energy and image he brings to our great country. The song and video features some famous speeches and quotes from President Obama, the First Lady, Former Presidents Kennedy, Reagan, and Clinton, as well as Martin Luther King. The Senator was very excited by the song and offered to play it for the President, Vice-President and Speaker of the House, Nancy Pelosi.

Nassiri's latest release. 17 brand new songs that touch the heart of many of the world's social issues through positive, uplifting, and healing music.

Nassiri Music is proud to announce that beginning March 1st, 2011, Nassiri is launching his own satellite radio station on XM173! One hour shows every day at 9AM and 5PM.
